

Mortgage Rates Shift Slightly Higher

July 26, 2018

MCLEAN, Va., July 26, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Freddie Mac (OTCQB:FMCC) today released the results of its Primary Mortgage Market Survey[®] (PMMS[®]), showing that mortgage rates moved up slightly over the past week to their highest level since late June.

"The next few months will be key for gauging the health of the housing market," said Freddie Mac Chief Economist Sam Khater. "Existing sales appear to have peaked, sales of newly built homes are slowing and unsold inventory is rising for the first time in three years."

Added Khater, "Meanwhile, affordability pressures are increasingly a concern in many markets, as the combination of continuous price gains and higher mortgage rates appear to be giving more prospective buyers a pause. This is why new and existing-home sales are not breaking out this summer despite the healthy economy and labor market."
