

Mortgage Rates Drop to Lowest Point in Three Months

December 13, 2018

MCLEAN, Va., Dec. 13, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Freddie Mac (OTCQB: FMCC) today released the results of its Primary Mortgage Market Survey[®] (PMMS[®]), showing that rates dropped significantly after several weeks of moderating.

Sam Khater, Freddie Mac's chief economist, says, "The 30-year fixed fell to 4.63 percent this week – the lowest it has been since mid-September. Mortgage rates have either fallen or remained flat for five consecutive weeks and purchase applicants are responding with an uptick in demand given these lower rates. While the housing market softened in response to higher rates through most of this year, the combination of a low unemployment and recent downturn in rates should support home sales heading into the early winter months."
