

Freddie Mac Announces Intent to Sell Almost $1 Billion in Notes in Its 20th STACR® Offering

April 22, 2016

MCLEAN, VA--(Marketwired - Apr 22, 2016) - Freddie Mac (OTCQB: FMCC) today announced its intention to sell its 20th Structured Agency Credit Risk (STACR®) debt notes offering since the program's inception and its 3rd one this year. The $916 million offering is subject to market conditions. Through the STACR program, Freddie Mac transfers a portion of its credit risk on certain Single-Family loans to private capital markets investors.

STACR Series 2016-DNA2 has a reference pool of recently-acquired Single-Family mortgages with an unpaid principal balance of more than $30 billion. Freddie Mac holds the senior loss risk in the capital structure, and a portion of the risk in the Class M-1, M-2, M-3, and B Bonds.

Nomura Securities and Bank of America Merrill Lynch will serve as co-lead managers and joint bookrunners.

Freddie Mac has led the market in introducing new GSE risk-sharing initiatives by completing 19 STACR offerings, two Whole Loan Securities (SM) (WLS(SM)) offerings and 16 ACIS transactions since mid-2013. Through STACR, WLS and ACIS, Freddie Mac has transferred a substantial portion of credit risk on more than $440 billion of UPB on single-family mortgages. Freddie Mac was the first agency to market credit risk transfer transactions with STACR, WLS and ACIS, and the company has since grown its investor base to approximately 200 unique investors, including reinsurers.

This announcement is not an offer to sell any Freddie Mac securities.
